

Introduction:

Hu-Tech's consultants have considerable experience in providing expert opinion on personal injury cases, and in criminal matters, as well as in attending court to give evidence. We specialise in: ergonomics, workplace health and safety, and human con- tributory factors in accidents. We can also provide expert opinion in industrial diseases (non-medical aspects), noise / vibration control and Control of Substances Hazardous to Health (COSHH) through our Associate Consultant.

Hu-Tech's Expert Team:

Andrew Nicholson, Principal Consultant

Dr Ian Randle, Principal Consultant

Calum Smith, Senior Consultant

Robin Howie, Associate Consultant

We accept instruction from both Claimant and Defendant Solicitors (Pursuer and Defender in Scotland) and also from Insurers or Loss Adjusters. We adopt a neutral stance in our investigations, but are prepared to give forthright expression to our opinion.

Increasingly we are instructed to act as single joint experts in accordance with the requirements of the Civil Procedural Rules. Most of these have been agreed between the parties with a few being the subject of a Court Order.

Relatively few cases come to Court, but we have at various times attended to give expert evidence at more than a dozen Courts throughout England, Scotland and Wales including the High Court, Queen's Bench Division.

Recently, we have received instructions from the following Solicitors:
