

Introduction

Hu-Tech have been offering expert ergonomics advice and solutions for over 16 years. During this time we have acquired extensive experience of working with leading organisations in the pharmaceuticals, chemicals and food & drink industries. We have considerable knowledge of the common ergonomics issues encountered in both Research & Development and manufacturing environments. Our skills have been utilised on a wide range of projects, large and small, all with the common aim of providing workplaces that are safe, efficient and comfortable to use.

Our specialist services include

- Advice on Corporate Ergonomics Strategies
- Devising ergonomics standards, procedures and guidelines
- Ergonomics specifications for new equipment and facilities
- Design of workstations and workplace layout
- Ergonomic risk assessment programmes – including upper limb disorders (RSI / CTD) and manual handling
- Risk reduction measures through task, equipment and workplace redesign
- Training and Intranet based e-learning packages

Case studies

Hu-Tech has produced a number of case studies, which illustrate how we have worked with organisations to provide solutions to their ergonomics issues. These include:

1. Ergonomic design of a Type-3 biosafety cabinet in pharmaceuticals R&D
2. Ergonomic assessment of packing line operations and provision of risk reduction measures in food manufacture
3. Manual handling assessments for engineering functions in secondary manufacturing plant
4. Production of an Ergonomics Guide on the Design and Use of Pipettes
5. Programme of risk assessments for upper limb disorders in pharmaceuticals manufacturing
6. Back-care training programme for pharmaceuticals sales force
7. Design of a new packing line for a national food company

We would be pleased to send you further details of these and similar projects. Please contact us at the addresses below.
